This is a simple tool that allows you to perform the following tasks: Set Keybinding for windows. Open command prompt windows without typing the command. Open Tabs without typing their names. A: As it is a long time since the original question, and with the popularity of the new and free DDG and Google, I decided to update the answer. The old tool was a popular application, but is no longer available as it seems to be discontinued (and removed from the source code). I believe that the best you can do is go with just google: (there are probably ways to do this with a combination of the + and site: keyword too, I just didn't look in depth). Battle of Caporri The Battle of Caporri took place during the Italian unification of 1866 and led to the end of Venetian rule over the island of Capri. Background In 1866, the Kingdom of Piedmont had begun its push into the Veneto. In order to protect Capri, the governor of the island, Roberto Mazzotti, asked the French commander of the blockade to allow a French naval squadron to enter the bay to secure the island for the Piedmontese. Battle On 11 May, Italian Admiral Carlo Filiberto Monteranzer arrived to Capri. Two days later, on 13 May, the Piedmontese began bombarding the island's fortifications. At about 5:30 am, the French took over the island. Win95.CIH:CIH is a simple tool that works using the Command Prompt environment and checks to see if your computer is infected with the Win95.CIH virus. CIH, or Chernobyl is a virus that is specific to Windows 98 and is capable of inflicting serious damage to the computer, mainly attacking the system BIOS. To scan your computer all you have to do is run the application and follow the simple on-screen instructions. They come as simple Yes or No questions and answering them tells the app what it can do. Once you give a specific 'Yes' command, it immediately starts to scan your computer in search for the virus. If found, the application automatically removes it. When the scanning process ends, the application closes. The win95.cih virus checks to see if the computer is infected with the Win95.CIH virus by searching the system directory for files with the extension.CIH. If it finds any of these files then it will try to delete them.
