Thanks to Photoshop's many features, you don't have to be a professional to take advantage of some of the program's tools. Filling Your Photos with Backgrounds When you're working on a new image in Photoshop, the default setting is to have a white background. However, sometimes you need to start with a photo that doesn't have any background. If you do, you may end up with a very large image — a giant white square! Here are some tips for dealing with a white background in Photoshop: Change the background to black by choosing Edit⇒Fill⇒Transparency. Increase the file resolution so the picture has a more clear and detailed appearance. Make the background image transparent by double-clicking the Transparency icon at the bottom of the Layers panel. Change the size and size of the background image to fit better in the canvas. Rename and move the background layer down in the Layers panel so it's not the first layer. Change the layer's blend mode to Soft Light, Multiply, or Screen. You can add any type of shape in the background layer. A shape will draw an exact copy of the shape's outline into the image. You can keep making changes to the shape as needed. Creating Adjustment Layers One of the coolest things you can do with Photoshop is to create a layer that automatically adjusts the overall brightness, contrast, sharpness, or color balance of an image. These layers can be very helpful if you're using the program to adjust a bunch of images at once, or if you want to make adjustments based on your current image. These adjustments are based on a scientific, and sometimes scientific-sounding, system. When you're working on a batch of images, make an Adjustment Layer for each image. This layer stays on top of all other layers and automatically adjusts the brightness, contrast, sharpness, or color balance of the image. The adjustments for an image are applied automatically. To make an Adjustment Layer, follow these steps: 1. Select New Adjustment Layer from the New Layer icon in the Layers panel. The New Adjustment Layer dialog box opens, as shown in Figure 7-7. 2. Select the Range box in the dialog box and then select the Brightness, Contrast, or Saturation (top to bottom), Sharpness, or Red-Blue box (

Zirconia-based maxillofacial implants: retrospective analysis of five cases. The aim of this study was to report 5 cases of zirconia-based maxillofacial implants. All bone and implants were made of zirconia. The surgical procedures consisted of the implantation of 2 zirconia implants and 1 zirconia-base ceramic abutment into the alveolar sockets of 5 patients with prosthetic reasons. The bone resorption and infection of the implants were not observed during 1-year follow-up. We conclude that zirconia-based implants seem to be a promising long-term alternative to titanium..D.Ky. 2006) (applying the nine-part test from Chevron to vacate award based on lack of understanding of arbitrator's authority to modify provision), cert. denied, 130 S.Ct. 2842 (2010); see also Nghiem v. NEC Elec., Inc., 25 F.Supp.2d 21, 22-23 (D.D.C. 1998) (same). Here, the arbitrator found that no agreement was reached in negotiations, and awarded unpaid fringe benefits. In addition, he found that "[b]ased on the evidence before him, the rejection of these contractual provisions constituted good and just cause for terminating the Hired Employees." This award constitutes an impermissible revision of the agreement itself, because it modifies the agreement to Plaintiffs benefit. See Nghiem, 25 F.Supp.2d at 23-25 (concluding that arbitrator's modification of agreement on the basis that it was "in the best interest of the union," which was not a basis provided for under section 301 of the LMRA, was beyond its authority). In addition, the Court finds that the arbitrator's award violated AAA Rule 30.1(a)(1), which requires that the arbitrator "directly address the merits of the issues submitted for arbitration and the effects of the arbitrator's decision." 4. Order Based on the foregoing, the Court grants Plaintiffs motion to vacate the arbitration award and to remand the case to the arbitrator for a hearing on the merits of the grievance.[6] An appropriate order is entered this day. ORDER For the reasons stated in the accompanying memorandum opinion, it is this day ORDERED as follows: 1. Plaintiffs' motion to vacate the arbitration award is

What's the difference between a militant Islamist and a crazed fundamentalist of any other type? Pretty much nothing that can't be fixed by throwing a few billion of your own money at the problem. In other words, the only real difference between the new global Islamist jihad and any other is that instead of its being waged by a bunch of cranky little old professors and scholars, the new jihad is being led by Iran and China. Back in 2005, in the wake of 9/11, Ahmed Bhatia, then the chief of the Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI), reportedly told a gathering of Islamist Jihadists and military officers that the US "is scared of a nuclear Pakistan" and that any attack on Iran "will be the US's Pearl Harbour". The implication was that Pakistan would either attack Iran or provoke Iran into attacking

Pakistan, which in turn would provoke the US into coming to the rescue of its loyal ally. And of course America's beloved ally in the region would come from the rear, thereby making Obama look like a war hero. The trouble is, Bhatia never delivered on the "Pearl Harbour" bit, and the fact is that he has never given the slightest thought to delivering on anything. He is just about the most useless former-intelligence-chief in the history of the ISI. It is the same story with China's Hu Jintao and the rest of that government's men in mufti, who, in the past decade or so, have taken to talking in grandiose terms about the dangers facing the world, the importance of Islam, the necessity of waging jihad (or is that 'holy war', as they also sometimes say it), the need to resist the West, the virtues of manufacturing your own weaponry, the importance of being "relaxed" about the threat posed by Iran, and so on, and so on. If China and Iran and Pakistan get their way, and 'Jihad' becomes a full-fledged major world religion and the West is caught in the east, with Islam, conservatism, and the West being seen as a bunch of decadent liberal cowards, the history of the last thousand years might just turn into history's third great global conflict: the Christian crusade against the 'Christians', the Catholics against the Protestants, the Protestants against the Catholics. And as with the first two, Western opinion will be largely irrelevant. You may see Obama storming around in his cowboy boots wanting to save us, but
