IKEA said prices dropped for the fifth straight month, with the average price for a property in Scotland down to £168,378. Prices in the rest of the UK fell by 0.9% in January after a 3% drop in December. But prices in England and Wales rose by 3.1% in January, according to Halifax. Andrew McLean, house price expert at IKEA, said: "With the Help to Buy scheme coming to an end at the end of the year, it is a bit of a worry to see the property market in Scotland slowing down. "However, there are still some positives in the market, particularly at the lower end of the market, where prices in Scotland are still falling," he added. The Help to Buy scheme, which aims to get more first-time buyers onto the housing ladder, closed on 31 December. Property prices are being pushed lower in Scotland in part because of a shortage of homes. Last month, Scottish first-time buyers enjoyed their best January for nine years. Buyers enjoyed a limited choice of properties at the lowest-cost end of the market, with the average price for a property falling by 2.4% to £132,816. Some of this price drop can be attributed to a fall in the number of properties available to first-time buyers, with 11,838 first-time buyers purchasing a home, according to the Scottish government. 231 Soft, funny, and actually useful pictographs and smileys that you can add to your menu, web design, application and widgets for a soft, soft and surprisingly useful icon collection, all at a reasonable price! The featured collection is not intended to replace your good old style, for sure it won't be, but will supplement its efforts so you can blend the icons with your own, personal theme. The added bonus of having your icon collection be yours should be the fact that you have the freedom to add the icons to where you want, or perhaps you prefer to use the collection as a replacement for a "common" icon system. Whether your add the collection as a plus to your website for a new unique look, to a desktop theme or in your application, you are pretty much in for a pleasant surprise when you add this icon pack, because the collection comes in the following sizes: 32x32, 48x48, 56x56, 64x64, 128x128, 16x16, 32x32, 48x48, 56x56, 64x64, 128x128 and 256x256. You are free to use the icons as you see fit, of course for those applications that are stored in your web browser, and for those that require buttons, you should know that the set comes in 3 separate states: hot, normal and disabled. Also, the icons are transparent PNG, AI, PSD and ICO files. Additionally, the entire set comes in 5 different color schemes and is ready to use. The pack contains the following colors: yellow, green, white, blue and grey. Regardless of the aesthetic style that you are currently using or intend to implement in your next project, do not hesitate to download the 230+ pictographs and smileys, because they are a variety that will make your work easier and sure to impress! Why? How to fix it? The issue is with the following code: #{ var condition = TRUE; if (condition) { return new StringItem("foobar"); } else { return new StringItem("foo"); } } The IntelliJ's codeformatting doesn't find the closing brace at the end of line 1, which makes the code look like this: #{ var condition = TRUE; if (condition) {
