I have a text file that contains some lines for my program like this sometext ABC:start sometext bla bla:1234 bla bla:4567 bla bla:9876 sometext ABC:end The location of the colon inside of the line is not fixed, there may be any number of characters between the colon and the end of the line. My requirement is to scan through each line for : Start End I can do this by converting to string array of each line, check for colon then conversion back to a string and use split method. However, I wanted to know whether it can be done using method in java. Any help would be appreciated! A: I would use a regular expression to do it: String txt = "sometext ABC:start sometext bla bla:1234 bla bla:4567 sometext bla bla:9876 sometext ABC:end"; String regex = "(^.*?:|$)"; Pattern pattern = Pattern.compile(regex); Matcher matcher = pattern.matcher(txt); String start = null; while (matcher.find()) { start = matcher.group(); System
