The objective of the study was to evaluate the efficacy of colposuspension using fascia lata and mersilene mesh. We retrospectively analyzed stress urinary incontinence (SUI) cases performed during a 20-year period (1990-2009) using a 3-port laparoscopic technique and colposuspension using mersilene mesh and fascial lata for the correction of SUI. Primary outcomes were postoperative bladder dynamics and changes in quality of life. In all cases colposuspension was performed after correction of pelvic organ prolapse. Once he knew that his girlfriend Em was broken from her radical leftist protesting ways, he was free to tie up and fuck her. She'd tried to waste his opportunities to "liberate" her, but this time he wanted to be in control. Those anti-sex feminism blogs were fun, but he knew you could never get really bored of the long hard dildo shoved down her throat and jizzed up her silky cunt. The sort of thing, he thought, that a real power exchange could be fun — and you could totally find that sort of thing happening in the real world, too, without having to drop a grand and twat on an exotic holiday. Straddling Em, pinning her arms down with sticky tape and slapping her tits, he asked her why she'd never let him fuck her doggy style. Doesn't she like anal play? So why not let him put a strap-on dildo up her ass and shove a nice big cock up her dripping pussy? The dildo fit just fine, and as she started kicking furiously he decided he'd better fuck her hard before she broke his ribs. This girl was very well fed. He knew already from her blog posts that she was eager for gangbangs and facials, so he got his cock nice and wet too. After fucking her doggy style for a bit, he pulled out and asked her if she'd like a proper fuck. With a bit of the element of surprise, he tried to fuck her standing up, bending her over and fucking her sweet little smooth ass, but he couldn't do that kind of thing as well as he'd expected, so he pushed her to her knees and then to her hands and knees. Em had been a vegetarian for a few years, and she'd been kinda hoping she'd soon be able to fuck, so she was delighted to be forced to go through these kinky postures, things that she'd never expected to be able to get away with or even to consider doing. The harder she could be made to orgasm, the more she'd hope for him to get off on that. It was probably one of the hardest fucks she'd had in years, and she could hardly stand. Punishing their bodies was great, because it could be adopted for you to a hundred other girls, but it was kinda cheating if it was just for you, was it

Switzerland 1937 is a game for Real-Time Strategists. It provides a rich gameplay experience in which both players are equal. The game is divided into playable turns. During the first turn of the game, the Government and the Rebels are placed on a map, in turn order. Each player then has four actions for that turn: - Move one of their units. - Use one of their event cards (the set available for each turn). - Fight an enemy unit. - Negotiate with a friend on the Diplomacy board. - Diplomacy is only available for Government. The event cards' objectives are to win a city or to kidnap an important political figure. These cards are drawn at random during the game. The Rebels' task is to capture cities, infrastructures, e.g. factories, mines, ports, money chests or banks, in order to produce more event cards and units. The duration of the game is determined by the number of event cards which both sides have to play. There are three sets of event cards in the game. The cards are drawn at random. After the first turn, the Governments' and Rebels' action order is established and the map is taken into account. The Governments' units will be the first to perform actions (they can also be moved at any time during the game). The Rebels' units will be behind, but can act at any time after the Governments have acted. The Rebels can use their event cards, e.g. to buy equipment, recruit a unit or exchange an event card. They can also use their event cards to sabotage the Government's units. The Government can use the same means, but also the event cards to sabotage the Rebels. All this is part of the game mechanics. The effect of sabotage is random. Rebels can sabotage private military barracks, banks, bridges, factories, mines, ports, trains, the general economic situation, police stations, barracks, embassies, or the military situation. The whole game is being simulated until one of the two sides has won. About Game Mechanics The game will be simulated using a hex map. The Rebel's and the Government's units will be placed on the map according to their order on the game's first turn. Rebel and Government units can be controlled using movement and attack commands. During the game, the Rebels are able to buy and sell units and to produce new ones. The Government is able to do the same, but
