It is a natural by-product of the pine tree industry and is commonly used as an indicator of the presence of fresh pine oil in seasoning blends. It can be used as a flavouring in industrial coffee and tea, and in soft drinks for its sweet scent. The pine tar produced from the seasoning tree is used in the manufacture of paints and varnishes, to make rubber shoes waterproof, in the manufacture of fertilizers, and in the extraction of wood pulps, notably in the manufacture of plywood. Pine tar is also used to produce phenolic resins. The resin is reacted with formaldehyde to produce a thermosetting resin. Phenolic resin is used in molding processes and as an intermediate product in manufacturing synthetic rubber.
