Sherry 1.3 GMA3150 32bit Fix2.7zQ: Checking if a polygon contains all points of a given order Let  $D = \{d_0, d_1, \dots, d_m\}$  be a set of  $m+1$  points in a plane that are ordered counterclockwise (example:  $d_0 = (0,0)$ ,  $d_1 = (1,0)$ ,  $d_2 = (0,1)$ , and so on). Let  $S_m$  be a convex polygon with vertices  $a_i = d_{i-1} + d_i$  ( $i = 1, 2, \dots, m$ ). Consider the following problem: Given a set of  $m$  points in a plane, check if  $S_m$  contains the set  $D$ . My idea is, first, to check if  $S_m$  contains only one of the vertices of  $D$ . If not, then  $S_m$  can't contain  $D$ . If  $S_m$  contains one of the vertices, then, there might be another vertex inside  $S_m$  that is not within  $S_m$ 's boundary, and we can proceed by moving from one vertex to its neighbor. We can do this until all points of  $D$  are checked to see if they are inside  $S_m$ . If the problem is in the class of P problems, then this approach is correct. But, if not, does somebody know how this problem can be solved? A: If there are several disjoint convex polygons then the problem is NP-complete. The proof is straightforward.
