With their addition of an MLS-record $50 million in improvements to Red Bull Arena — including the addition of new suites and expanded commercial areas — and a win against the Portland Timbers in their first game at the venue, the team has much to be happy about at this moment. While the New York-based franchise has much to boast about, the team can also be hard on its top players. Some of them have taken that to heart, like right back Kaku who has been working hard to get his teammates acclimated to Red Bull Arena.
