Click to expand... 2, you can turn on the option "improve energy efficiency by up to 16 percent" by going to: I'm not trolling, I'm honestly wondering what you would be like if somebody tried to kick you out of a college because you don't use the right software. Click to expand... No trolling, the OP stated he did use XP. Click to expand... That's fine, but you can also use 2007. You're not getting special treatment (and you're getting it from an OP who has been gone since 2013.) Click to expand... I've been away from the internet for awhile so I guess I'm not understanding the topic on 'trolling' in forums. All I meant is that you will no longer be able to use Windows XP as you had before, even if you uninstalled it. Click to expand... I meant that the OP would no longer be able to use Windows XP. I'm actually also uninstalling Windows XP today. I should also mention that I was also referring to the OP in my last post, the OP who works in the field and is interested in the latest developments in software for my field. I should also mention that I was also referring to the OP in my last post, the OP who works in the field and is interested in the latest developments in software for my field. Click to expand... Well this guy seems like a complete douchebag if he tries to turn you out of the college for asking what version of Windows you are running. Since you are a permanent member of this group and you posted right after me I guess my first post was aimed at you. Which OS is better? Would
