The Security Administrator's Guide to Securing Linux (SEC), Fourth Edition provides detailed security guidelines, best practices, and complete step-by-step directions for securing your Linux systems. This book, written by seasoned IT security professionals, provides practical guidance for those who wish to take a comprehensive and practical approach to securing their Linux systems. In addition to the material required for the Linux Professional Institute's Certified Information Systems Security Professional (LPIC-1) certification exam, the fourth edition provides a review of new types of attacks, and it expands the coverage of cryptography, intrusion detection, wireless LANs, and wireless access points. The fourth edition also introduces a new application security specialty, which includes topics such as Java security, web security, wireless security, biometric security, and mobile device security. Finally, the fourth edition introduces cybersecurity concepts such as risk assessment and the relationship between cybersecurity and business continuity. This book ensures that your Linux security will not only safeguard against malicious hacking attempts, but will also help you handle potential breaches. Blog What is a Lifestyle Coach A lifestyle coach is someone who helps you create and live a healthy lifestyle, encouraging you to build a fulfilling, balanced life. They bring a holistic approach to guiding you to achieve and maintain healthy, positive goals. Lifestyle coaches work with people in all stages of life, including children, teens, and adults. They are not dietitians, nor are they fitness trainers. But they can work with your body and mind to support you in making healthy, positive lifestyle choices. Together, the lifestyle coach and you work toward developing sustainable healthy habits and habits that will support your long-term goals. Your lifestyle coach will help you create a wellness plan to reach your ultimate wellness goals, or life goals, and help you implement that plan over time. More Lifestyle Coaches than you think There are thousands of personal trainers, nutritionists and fitness professionals, but there are fewer than 100,000 life coaches in the United States. There are two primary reasons people don't seek the help of lifestyle coaches: They don't have the time. Lifestyle coaches provide one-on-one guidance in a personalized, respectful, supportive and nurturing environment. Sometimes, even if a client is willing to invest time in working with a lifestyle coach, the client may not be able to spend the time to meet with the lifestyle coach until a later date. In this case, the client may find this to be acceptable but needs help in deciding what intervention will be beneficial. They don't see the value in investing in their health. Some clients mistakenly believe that health and fitness advice is only about diet and exercise, without considering other lifestyle choices. These choices can play a critical role in both preventing illness and successfully managing disease. The Lifestyle Coach Benefits Typically, life coaches work with clients over an extended time period: from a few months to a few years. Depending on your current stage of life, your coach
