Efficacy of cranial electrotherapy stimulation for reducing anxiety and pain in people with neurological injuries: a meta-analysis. The aim of this meta-analysis was to assess the efficacy of cranial electrotherapy stimulation (CES) for reducing anxiety and pain in people with neurological injuries. We carried out a search of MEDLINE, PsycINFO, Embase, Cochrane Central Register of Controlled Trials, and Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature. Inclusion criteria were a randomized controlled trial (RCT) in adults with neurological injuries, CES treatment, and a primary outcome measure of anxiety or pain assessed using validated tools. Data was extracted from the studies by 2 independent reviewers and analyzed using CMA. Five eligible RCTs met the inclusion criteria. Five studies involved CES on the frontal and/or temporal lobes and were classified as frontal stimulation (FS) or temporal lobe stimulation (TS). Four studies involved CES on the temporal lobe and were classified as TS. For the FS group, only 2 studies reported outcomes at the start and end of treatment and reported a significant improvement in anxiety. For the TS group, 3 studies reported outcomes at the start and end of treatment and reported significant improvement in anxiety and pain. Evidence from the studies evaluating CES for the reduction of anxiety and pain in people with neurological injuries is ambiguous. Although a few studies have demonstrated positive effects for FS and TS in reducing anxiety and pain, larger studies are required to establish the efficacy of these interventions in this patient group.

Q: Javascript clearing innerHTML doesn't work
This little Javascript snippet doesn't really work. `var d = document.createElement('div'); d.innerHTML = " + myString + "; document.body.innerHTML = document.body.innerHTML;`
`document.body.innerHTML = d.innerHTML;` It simply removes everything from the page when I click on the delete button. The first line works fine. The second doesn't. I tried cloning the element with `clone()`, but the same thing happened. Any ideas? A: It's because this deletes the entire page, not just the contents of the div. Instead, you want: `var d = document.createElement('div');`
`d.innerHTML =`
